

- 2) JNES will also develop and improve seismic-tsunami PSA method considering combination of seismic and tsunami events.
- 3) JNES will contribute improvement of IAEA's guideline on PSA of external events through new EBP of IAEA/ISSC.

REFERENCES

- Japanese government. (2011). "Report of Japanese government to the IAEA ministerial conference on nuclear safety"
- Hirano, M., Nakamura, T. and Ebisawa, K. (2008). "Outline of seismic PSA implementation standards on the atomic energy society of Japan", The 14th World Conf. on Earthquake Engineering, Oct. 12-17, Beijing, China.
- Sugino, H., Iwabuchi, Y., Nishino, M., Tsutsumi, H., Sakagami, M. and Ebisawa, K. (2008). "Development of probabilistic methodology for evaluating tsunami risk on nuclear power plants", The 14th World Conf. on Earthquake Engineering, Oct. 12-17, Beijing, China.
- Kameda, H. (2012). "Engineering agenda on nuclear safety from the 2011 Tohoku-Pacific Earthquake", Proceeding of the One Year after 2011 Great East Japan Earthquake – International Symposium on Engineering Lessons Learned from the Giant Earthquake-, Tokyo
- Takamatsu, N., Kameda, H., and Ebisawa, K. (2012). "Fragility enhancement in seismic-tsunami risk reduction for nuclear power plants", Proceeding of the One Year after 2011 Great East Japan Earthquake – International Symposium on Engineering Lessons Learned from the Giant Earthquake-, Tokyo.